Light harmonies, playful moods, deeper emotions - they move like clouds of glass over soundscapes: sometimes as a clear reflection, sometimes as a diffuse image of the underlying essence.

Glass clouds, as the first part of the flow-through series, drift and often land in unexpected places. Occasionally they blow away the fog that surrounds us and reveal the clear starry sky, only to invite us on further journeys with their peaceful shapes and strange colors in the next moment.

The never-ending game of gaze at the sky accompanies us here as well, which images we believe we recognize when looking at changing clouds.
